Organised by:

The XVII congress of the European Association of Agricultural Economists aims to foster the debate and dialogue over effective policies, innovative strategies, investment priorities and future-oriented educational programs to change the world through agri-food system transformations. We look forward to contributions from various stakeholders around the world, and to interactions between scientists, policy-makers, agro–industry, farmers and civil society at the congress.

The theme “Connecting science and society” implies that agricultural economists push the boundaries of science and research for a strong societal impact. Creating prosperous, sustainable and resilient agri-food systems requires effective and straightforward public policies, technical solutions and audacious private sector investments, innovative civil society contributions, and behavioral change in the society overall.

Why become a partner of the XVII EAAE Congress?

To seize the opportunity to meet and discuss with national and international representatives of the public and the private sector

A way to expand your network

To contribute to the diffusion of knowledge

An opportunity to share your expertise

To support French scientific research in agricultural economics (research unit SMART) highly recognized, both at national and international levels; the EAAE Congress was last held in France in 1978

A marketing tool to raise awareness of your brands and products, to increase recognition of your organization/company
